Funeral Of Orton J. Rolfson Held Sunday

Funeral services over the remains of Orton J. Rolfson, 57 years, who passed away last Thursday, was held in the Stake House Sunday at 2 p.m. with Bishop H. F. Allen, of the First Ward Bishopric in charge. W. W. McMullin had charge of the singing with Mrs. R. W. Tollestrup at the organ, the hymns being "The Deepening Trials" and "Sometime We'll Understand." Special numbers were rendered by Jos. McLean who sang "Beyond the Dawn" and the Male Quartette, F. R. Taylor and Co. who sang "In the Hour of Trial." Invocation was by Paul Redd, and the Benediction by C. E. Allred.

The first speaker was J. U. Allred who had known the family in American Fork, Utah, before they emigrated to Canada, and who had lived neighbors to deceased for over 30 years in Raymond, and knew him to be a man of deep convictions, and a friend to all. The parents of deceased had made great sacrifice for the sake of the Gospel and Orton had a deep and biding testimony of the truthfulness of the principles of the Gospel. He had been in Raymond since 1901, and was married in 1903, being the third couple to be married in Raymond.

O. R. Knight spoke briefly stating that deceased had done a great deal of building for him during more than 30 years time, and had always found him dependable, and he also had the knack of divining what and how a person wanted a thing done, which was invaluable to him as a person who hired men for work and had to leave them to see it finished. He extended his sympathies to the bereaved widow and family. Bishop Walker was the next speaker. He had known deceased ever since he came to Canada, and had always found him honest and reliable. He spoke of how deceased had improved his talent as a builder, and urged all to follow his example and make use of the various gifts with which the Lord had blessed them.

The concluding speaker was John H. Blackmore, who had taught the members of deceased's family as they came into High School and he felt their loss very keenly. He said if they wished to please their father, to go ahead now, and carry out the things he wished them to do while alive.

Interment was made in the local cemetery with Christensen Bros. in charge. Considering the severe weather a large cortege followed the hears to the last resting place.

The floral offerings were beautiful and profuse, speaking in unmistakable terms the esteem in which deceased was held. The pall bearers were all old friends of deceased and pioneers of the town, viz., Geo. E. Cant, S. R. Card, Henry Gibb, C. W. Lamb, W. W. Denow, Sr. and Theo. T. Mendenhall.

Coal merchants and coal haulers have been busy the past two weeks distributing the heat producing rock to the homes and offices of the town.

During the past few days have been getting everything but warm weather. If they could bring that in they would indeed be welcome.

The hot and cold shower is now working in the Opera House, the boys getting their first shower from the warm tank Monday night. It is a great addition and will be welcome by all.

Within The Law Well Presented

Despite the cold weather, a good crowd was present for the presentation of "Within the Law" at the Second Ward Chapel Saturday evening last by the Stirling troupe.

The severe cold made it impossible for the Matinee to be put on as the building was not warm enough, but at night there was a good sized crowd, and they were certainly well repaid for coming out as the play was a very fine interpretation of a difficult and heavy play.

News Notes

Coming next week. The first picture of 1934, "Barrett's of Wimpole Street."

J. S. Smith and Walter Hyde of Cardston were Raymond visitors on Tuesday afternoon.

Reserve Saturday for the Capitol. FREE RADIO and an exceptionally fine picture—Bing Crosby in "Here is My Heart."

If the depth of the holes drilled in Turner Valley in the search for oil were placed end to end they would make the amazing total of 340 miles of hole.

The Chinook is here. When Lethbridge announced 10 below Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. it was 20 above at the Meeks Ranch and the heat soon reached town too.

J. E. Meeks went to the lease Monday to get the boys rounding up the poorer of the cattle and getting them into feed. He says the past two weeks have been very hard on the heids, and they have been difficult to move at all.

In the first Senior Basketball League game on the Opera House floor played Monday night between the Jacks and the Aces, the local team won by a score of 35-37 in a game which was featured by several tie-ups in the score, and some sensational playing, also some which was rather draggy.

Due to the cold weather the crowd was not large, and this no doubt detracted from the general interest in the game. In the advertising it was stated that Dave Stori, the coach and player from Montana who expects to play with the Young Hawks, would be on the line, but he was not, and this rather detracted from the interest of the game too.

Play opened up rather slow but before long Lethbridge slipped in a couple of counters, and then the locals turned on the steam for a few minutes and even up the score board. The game was a sawed back and forth throughout the forty minutes of play, Raymond being in the lead most of the way, although Lethbridge came out on the long end of a 25-38 score.

Donaldson and Sinclair starred for Lethbridge, Donaldson repeatedly slipping through the defence and Sinclair playing a guard game that kept the locals busy thinking up plays that would get by him.

The lineup and score was as follows:

LETHBRIDGE: Howard, 9; Donaldson, 13; Hilep, 3; Dunlop, 2; Sinclair, 9; Hamilton, 0. Total 35.

RAYMOND: Kirkham, 5; O'Brien, 10; Nilsson, 0; Fairbanks, 10; Turner, 12; Snow, West, Nalder. Total 37.

Earl Zemp and Coreblum of Lethbridge had the whistles for this game.

The advertised game between Stirling and Raymond Idlers did not materialize. There was a mix-up somewhere and Stirling did not come over, so the game was between the High School and Idlers, which was good and exciting. The Idlers came out on the long end of a 25-38 score.

Regular Rotary Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Raymond Rotary was held in the United Church Tuesday, January 22, at 12 noon with 18 present.

Paul Redd reported the progress made for the Gymnasium class at the Opera House, and stated that over 100 were already enrolled, and quite a number would enroll yet. It was decided to have a Rotary at the Opera House during each class period, and the Committee would make the appointments.

President T. Geo. Weed announced that the Raymond Club would furnish the program numbers for next week's meeting in Lethbridge and the speaker of the evening would be Torgie Torgeson, a past director of Rotary International. He asked as many as possibly could to plan to attend from the Raymond Club.

The speaker of the day was Father McGinnis, local Roman Catholic Priest who gave a splendid discourse on the ancient history of the European nations showing their evolutions through various forms of governments and drawing comparisons to our own present experiences. The talk was very enlightening and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

The meeting adjourned at 1:40.

Orson O. Biglow of Calgary spent a few days this week with his daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Rayo Woolf.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Pack left on Tuesday for avacation with relatives and friends in Utah and other States.

Olson's Swedes will be here next month. Watch for details of this game. It will be good.

Messrs. Pimm and Nutkins of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Lethbridge were Raymond visitors Wednesday last.

The young baby of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jensen has been ill for the past week or so with flu. It is reported to be progressing nicely now.

Ralph Bros. started their ice harvest last week. The weather however was so cold George says they decided to quit and wait for a warmer day. We don't blame them at all.

The Chinook which started Wednesday about 10 a.m. was warmed up enough by 12 noon that water was running freely off the roofs, and the snow was melting rapidly.

There seems to be no question about some kind of a change coming in our financial system, even the leaders of finance themselves state that some sort of a change must come and that very soon.

Their home every day for the past five or six years, and that he should almost be with the mourners. He was sure that the bereaved parents would get consolation from the Spirit of the Lord, and that as the days passed by they would see and understand why their only child was taken from them. Both parents are natural leaders and they could afford comfort and consolation, and do an untold amount of good by leading the children of others in the proper way.

A large cortege followed the hearse to the cemetery where Christensen Bros. had charge of the interment.

Raymond was shocked Saturday morning when news spread of the death in the St. Michael's Hospital, Lethbridge, between 8 and 9 a.m. that morning of the death of Dennis, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rayo Woolf, and their only child, who was a victim away in a very short time.

He attended school Monday and Tuesday, and returned home Tuesday afternoon complaining of not feeling very well. He slept fairly well Tuesday night, and quite a bit of the time Wednesday, and Thursday morning woke up feeling fine. His mother asked him if he was going to school, and he said he didn't think he would go. Early in the forenoon, he complained of pains in his stomach, and the Doctor ordered him to the Lethbridge Hospital, where all that could possibly be done was done, but without avail, and he passed away early Saturday morning. Dennis was a popular lad, and was a favorite on the playground. He had always been healthy and until the fatal sickness took hold of him he hardly knew what sickness was.

FUNERAL SERVICES

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in the Second Ward Chapel with Bishop Jas. H. Walker in charge.

C. B. Strong had charge of the Choir with Mrs. Paul Dahl at the organ, the hymns by the Choir being, "I Know My Heavenly Father Knows," "My Prayer," and "Sometime We'll Understand." Jos. McLean sang "Going Home," and Mrs. D. A. Watson sang "My Loved One Rest," as special numbers.

The profusion of floral offerings, the large congregation present, and the classmates and playmates of Dennis, who carried in and out of the Chapel all the beautiful floral offerings, all bore evidence to the esteem in which the family was held. Pall bearers were: Shirley King, Roy Hawkins, Dick O'Brien and Reed Kirkham.

The invocation was by Roy Anderson and the benediction by L. L. Palmer.

B. J. Wood, of Cardston, was the first speaker. He had known the families of both parents of Dennis for years, and had watched the parents of Dennis grow from childhood, the time had passed rapidly, and he was sure if we could appreciate the shortness of our stay in mortality we would try and be better men and women and better neighbors. He spoke of the literalness of the resurrection and was sure that Dennis would be given back to his parents in the resurrected state, and that then they would be grateful for the parting that now seemed so hard. Urged all to prepare for death, for we know not when it would come, and to scatter our flowers on the pathway of life instead of leaving them all for the hour of death.

T. O. King had known the grandparents of deceased in the early days of Cardston and found it very hard to think of anything to say. He felt that Death was the greatest blessing of Mortality, and while we were not always able to see the required comfort and consolation, and do an untold amount of good by leading the children of others in the proper way.

Bishop Walker spoke briefly, stating that Dennis had been

A DISTORTED

VIEWPOINT

This week we heard one of Raymond's successful business men answer a request to run for the Town Council. His reply in effect was "I would not even consider it. It would hurt my business more than anything else could do". We listened and listened some more. The facts were revealed that our electors are so small at least some of them, that if a man on the Council makes a decision they do not at least approve of, and he happens to be in business, they will cease trading with him because of spite and to get even with him for what he has done.

Now, we have heard this same thing from several sources, and we are quite sure that some of the best men in our town refuse year after year to accept office on our public bodies because of this attitude on the part of many of the electors. Now, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, if you are guilty of this attitude, without any mincing of words we will say it is time you swept the cobwebs out of your brain and woke up. When we elect a Council we should try and select men who have made successes of their own affairs, and who have the business acumen and "intestinal fortitude" to make decisions on the Council that will be for the benefit of the Town at large and not for any select few people. And yet, when we get our toes stepped on because of Council decisions, we go gunning after the man who was responsible for the decision, and if he is in business, the first thing we do is to quit our business, dealings with him.

Well, so long as we cherish these childish habits we will not get the best that is possible out of our public bodies. A man on the Council is a representative of 2,000 people or more in our town, and has a multitude of things to consider. He must act for the benefit of the many. If he votes to turn off water of unpaid users, and you are one of them, why vent your spleen on him by withdrawing your personal friendship and support from him. Ask yourself this question, if you were on the Council and the Water Department was showing a greater deficit all the time, and this could be remedied by cutting off service for unpaid bills, you would certainly not be worthy of the name Citizen unless you voted for it, and as for a representative of the people if you would tolerate deficits when businesslike methods would remedy the evil, would you consider yourself as worthy of a place on a public body. We have merely mentioned this as an example.

Now think these things over. Nomination day is near, and when you hear not one but several citizens in business, make the same remark that we repeated at the beginning of this, we wonder what is the matter with us. None will say but that some of our best citizens are in business and yet because of our distorted vision we prevent these men from giving us the benefit of the ability of our public bodies. Are you one of these unreasonable citizens. We hope not.

CANADA'S HORSE INDUSTRY

Reports indicate an upward trend in horse production in Canada for the year 1934, says the 1935 "Agriculture Situation and Outlook," shortly to be published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce. While statistics show 2,933,400 horses in June 1934, as compared with 2,984,100 in June 1933, there has been a distinct increase in breeding activities during the year. Horse breeders' clubs in the Prairie Provinces numbered 166, an increase of 32.8 per cent over the number in operation in 1933, and a number of districts reported inability to secure satisfactory stallions. Importations of pure bred males and females for breeding purposes show a marked increase over 1933. Fifty pure breed stallions and mares of the draft breeds were imported in 1933, and this number will be more than doubled in 1934.

The export trade in draft horses was much more active in 1934 than for a number of years. An increased number of high class draft geldings were sold to buyers from the United States where there is a marked scarcity. Two shipments were made to Great Britain, one of grade Clydesdale geldings, and one of geldings of Percheron type. Frequent inquiries have been made for more horses of draft type for street work in the cities of Great Britain where there is a brisk demand. A car load of horses bred from pure bred sires of the hunter type was sent to Barbados for constabulary work, following a satisfactory trial shipment taken to the West Indies last year. Negotiations are at present under way for supplying five hundred unbroken western range horses to the Chinese National Government. A demand is developing in Australia for pure bred Clydesdales and Percherons from Canada for breeding purposes. A small shipment of pure bred Percheron mares in-foal was sent there early in the year, and inquiries for further shipments have been received.

Domestic demand for work horses improved sharply during spring and summer, with a corresponding appreciation in prices. The increase in the price of ordinary work horses was 15 to 25 per cent over 1933, and for big, sound drafters, from 20 to 35 per cent. All things considered, prospects point to improvement in both production and market demand.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LETHBRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER

MORE ABOUT THE CARE OF HOUSE PLANTS

Following last week's discussion on the general care of house plants this week's letter deals more in detail with the care required by some common varieties. Skill in growing house plants is acquired only through experience but directions based on the experience of others, are helpful nevertheless and where earnestly applied usually give encouraging results.

A further detail in watering omitted last week should be mentioned here. The need of avoiding extreme dryness or wetness was emphasized. What is also important in watering is to wet all of the soil in the pot. This is not always done when water is poured on top of the soil. For this reason plants, especially those requiring plenty of water, should be watered occasionally by partially immersing the pot in a basin of water. When the soil is thoroughly saturated the pot is taken out of the water and placed where free drainage is provided. This is very essential. Where a jardiniere is used, care is taken not to let any water stand in the bottom, otherwise the soil in the flower pot will waterlog and the plant will turn yellow. Painting the outside of the flower pot will make it less porous and help to check air drying of the soil.

The following notes on the care of different plants are based on information supplied by an experienced commercial florist, Mr. Wm. Reed of Lethbridge.

The Boston fern requires plenty of moisture and a partially shaded location such as a curtained window. Ferns to be washed off at least once a month, otherwise the breathing pores in the leaves of the plant become clogged with dust and the plant becomes unhealthy. Washing is done by syringing or by immersing in water. Foliage plants like aspidistra and rubber plants may be washed off with a wet sponge. Unlike the Boston fern the Asparagus fern does best where the soil is kept somewhat on the dry side.

Cyclamen do best if kept moist but not overwatered. Partly immersing in water occasionally to wet the soil in the center of the pot is often helpful. At the same time good drainage is essential. After blooming which usually ends in March or early April the corms from which the plants are propagated each year are rested until fall much in the same way as gladiolus bulbs are rested during the winter.

The Primula makes a very desirable plant for the house and readily responds to care. The plant to thrive best needs to be kept in a room where the temperature is never much above 60 F. and when coming in to bloom it should be kept out of direct sunlight. Mr. Reed warns against ever letting the soil become dry. At the same time overwatering is to be avoided.

The flowering begonia likes a bright location especially in winter and like the primula does best where the temperature does not exceed 60 F. When seed pods appear they need to be removed at once and any straggly growth pinched back.

The azalea is a beautiful flowering shrub that is easily cared for. Watering by giving the roots a thorough soaking is a main essential. Red spiders which attack the plant are controlled by washing off with cold water, either placing under a tap or by immersing.

The main flowering period of geraniums is from April to October. Plants can be carried through the winter if the soil is kept on the dry side during the winter months when the plants should be given full sunlight and all heads pinched back as they appear. The plant is not a free bloomer in the winter but with this treatment will flower freely in the spring. Geraniums may produce a fair amount of bloom during the winter if given plenty of sunshine.

PRODUCING EARLY LAMBS

(Experimental Farms Note)

Price recessions caused by the heavy influx of range lambs to the markets in the fall of the year make it essentially desirable for farm flock owners to get their lambs marketed at a time when comparatively high prices usually prevail. May and early June is a good time and lambs born in January and February can be finished by this time when proper feeding methods are used. This was amply demonstrated at the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge in 1932 when 190 aged range ewes, bred to Hampshire rams, dropped lambs during January and February, beginning January 10, and the largest proportion of these lambs were marketed before the middle of June.

During the winter the ewes were kept in good condition on stubble and alfalfa pasture plus hay during periods of storm and snow. At lambing time and until the lambs were weaned the ewes were fed hay, corn ensilage and about 1½ pounds of grain per day. This enabled them to produce large quantities of milk which gave the lambs a good start and provided for rapid growth and finish.

Creeps were provided for the lambs and they were fed grain as soon as they showed and desire for it. Whole oats and bran equal parts, constituted the starting mixture but later barley was added to make up about two-thirds of the mixture. The grain was self-fed and in addition the lambs consumed hay and ensilage at the troughs with their mothers.

The first three lambs were sold May 13 at an average weight of 95 pounds. A group of 103 was sold May 20 at an average weight of 79 pounds. A second group of 67 on June 10 with an average of 75 pounds and a final group of 19 on June 25 at an average of 64.7 pounds. The first group returned a net price of $6.36 per cwt., the second of $6.48 per cwt., but the third only $3.84 per cwt. This indicates quite clearly the break which occurs annually and illustrates the necessity for getting the lambs ready early.

CANADIAN TIRES WIN-TER IN FLORIDA

For the tenth consecutive year the famous Silver Fleet has arrived in Florida where it will have headquarters during the next several months. Tires manufactured by Canadian Goodrich Company, Ltd. Kitchener, Ontario, will undergo tests under the supervision of experts of the B. F. Goodrich Company.

Goodrich engineers chose Florida because of the excellent conditions for tire testing prevailing there during the winter. Tires of all types and sizes will be used in the tests, just as they are when the Silver Fleet leaves from Akron, Ohio, its home city.

Orlando has been chosen as a base for the Silver Fleet this year. Its operations will radiate over a wide range of territory. H. B. Viers, Fleet supervisor is in charge and has 26 drivers and others in the Silver Fleet with him.

Our Well Is Now Down

1,910 FEET

Geologists analyzing recent samples are very optimistic and think there will be a number of good gas horizons within the next 700 or 800 feet.

Officials are well pleased with showings and stock may still be purchased at 50c. per share. BUY NOW while you can.
